

Pirelli unveils the new Diablo Rosso IV Corsa

- Ideal for riders who want performance upgrades for their motorcycles
- Higher grip, enhanced 'fast' handling and performance consistency
- Bi-compound scheme both on front and rear tyre
- Slicker tread pattern compared to DIABLO ROSSO IV
- Racing derived technologies applied to profiles and structures

Celebrating its 150th anniversary, Pirelli unveils the sportiest new model in the Diablo Rosso family, the Rosso IV Corsa. The new DIABLO ROSSO IV Corsa represents a fiercer version of the DIABLO ROSSO IV supersport tyre, created to satisfy the most demanding motorcyclists seeking a tyre capable of high performance, to fully utilise the potential of their bikes.

Thanks to the new pattern, the contact area on the asphalt is said to have increased and, together with the new rubber compound, dry grip is promised to be improved. Other benefits: enhanced hi-performance handling and precise feedback. The innovative technologies applied to the carcass make DIABLO ROSSO IV Corsa able to adhere to the micro-roughness of the asphalt, ensuring precise feedback and a feeling of control. Performance consistency over multiple riding sessions, made possible by the characteristics of the tread pattern, where the intended repetition of the grooves offers high resistance to stress, and, by the new arrangement of the compounds, ensures optimal thermal balance.

In honor of Pirelli's 150th anniversary, also the "limited edition" model will be presented with 150th logos on the tyre's sidewall. new tyre will also feature a "limited edition" with the Pirelli 150th Anniversary logo. Founded in Milan in January 1872, Pirelli made its first bicycle tires in 1890. Pirelli's first motorcycle race took place as early as 1897. Since 2004, it has exclusively supplied tires to the Superbike World Championship.
